Helping animals

Many people may think that it is a good deed to help other people but I think that we should also extend our love to help animals as well.

Aunt Zoe and Uncle Christ are good examples. Not only do they raise four cats, they also give stray animals a home. They send the stray animals to the vet at their own expense because they don't want them to suffer from injuries or illnesses. They treat animals kindly. Apart from taking care of the stray animals, they also encourage people to adopt them.

Aunt Zoe and Uncle Christ do not expect any rewards. They do not complain. They just want to help the stray animals. They love the animals so much that they are like their children.

I think many people do not really want to give up their pets but they end up abandoning them. Why? It is most probably that they buy the pets because they think the pets are cute. After taking care of their pets for a period of time, they get bored with them. Finally, they abandon them in order to avoid troubles. Therefore, I think we should think carefully before we adopt a pet. The pet will certainly become a member of our family. Share our love to the animals.
